

Self-employed person's YEL insurance in 2024

YEL insurance is the basis for your pension and social security. That is why the insurance is statutory, in other words mandatory. Each YEL insurance contribution you pay increases your pension. At the same time, you improve your other social security benefits. You cannot replace YEL insurance with voluntary pension insurance.

For whom?

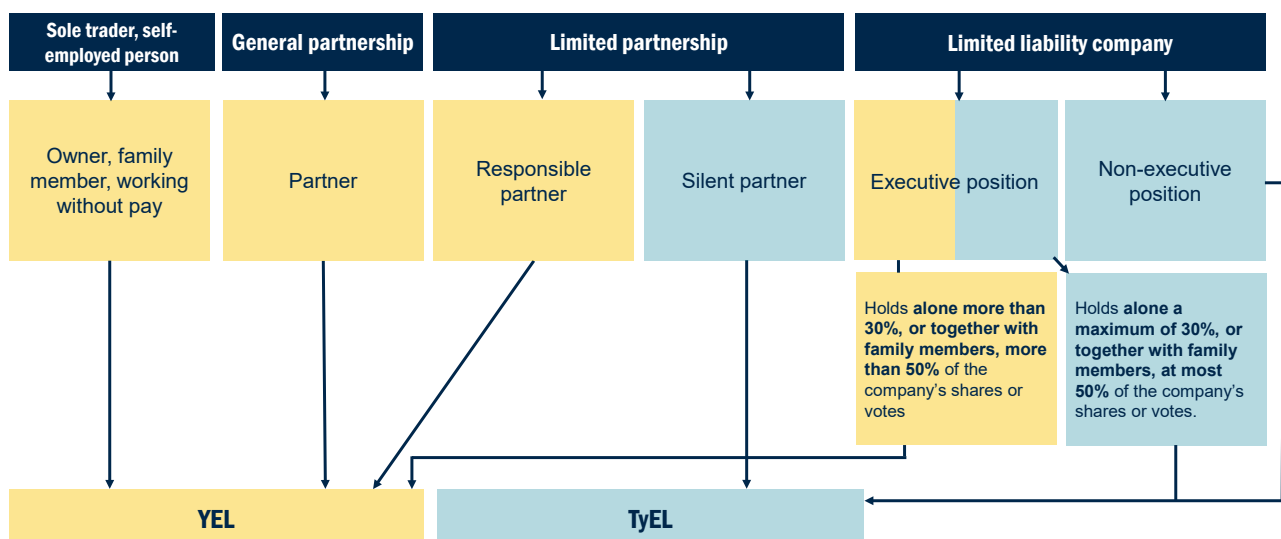

Take out YEL insurance when the following five conditions are met:

1. You are aged between 18–67.
2. You work as a self-employed person for at least four consecutive months.

3. Your YEL income is at least EUR 9,010.28 per year (in 2024).
4. You work in your company or you employ yourself.
5. You live in Finland.

The legal form of your company and your ownership share in the company can also have an impact on whether you need to have YEL insurance. Read more at ilmarinen.fi.

The figure below shows the impact of your company form and ownership share on whether you need to take out YEL insurance.

When?

Take out YEL insurance when your entrepreneurial activity meets the above conditions. It is worth taking care of immediately, but in any case within six months of when your self-employment that meets the YEL conditions started. Please note that you need to take out YEL insurance even if you do not have your own company or business ID or you use a light entrepreneur service. Also if you are a part-time entrepreneur, you need to take out YEL insurance when the above-listed conditions are met.

The easiest way to take out insurance is online at ilmarinen.fi.

If you take out the insurance retroactively, it should take effect from the date when the insured work began. You pay insurance contributions for the entire period when the insurance is in force.

Why take out YEL insurance?

By taking out YEL insurance for yourself, you take care not only of your pension but also your social security. That is why taking out the insurance is statutory, which means it is obligatory.

In addition to your future pension, the benefits paid by Kela, such as sickness allowance and parental allowance, for example, are determined based on the YEL income. YEL income also determines the level of your unemployment security. Self-employed persons' voluntary accident insurance contributions and benefits are also determined based on YEL income.

The YEL income must correspond to the actual value of your work

The YEL income should correspond to the monetary value of your work input. When estimating your YEL income, consider how much you would pay an employee with the same professional skills on a yearly basis. YEL income is the sum of money you would pay to another person for doing your work.

When estimating your YEL income, take also into account the number of your working hours, your company's turnover and the possible seasonality of your business. The YEL income includes all the work you do as an entrepreneur. So you only need one YEL insurance even if you have several companies.

When you take out YEL insurance, we will calculate a recommendation for your YEL income. The recommendation is based on your sector's pay level and it also takes into account the turnover you reported. All of the pension companies use the same recommendation. We will assess the information you provide in the insurance application and confirm an annual YEL income corresponding to your work input. When confirming the YEL income, we will also take into account other information you have provided on your entrepreneurial activities.

YEL income is always determined on an annual basis, regardless of when your YEL insurance begins. For example, if your insurance begins on 1 March 2024, estimate your YEL income for the next 12 months for the period 1 March 2024–28 February 2025.

When is YEL income changed?

If necessary, apply for a change in your YEL income if there are long-term changes in your work as an entrepreneur. Increase your YEL income for example when your entrepreneurial activity expands, or your part-time entrepreneurial activities turn into full-time self-employment. Similarly, apply for a reduction in your YEL income if your work input decreases.

You cannot change your YEL income retroactively, so it is advisable to react to changes in your entrepreneurial activities well in advance. You can apply for a change in your YEL income in our online service, after which we will confirm for you a YEL income corresponding to your annual work input. Changes other than those concerning your entrepreneurial activities and working, such as receiving larger social benefits, are not grounds for changing your YEL income.

We review the amount of your wage coefficient at the start of each year so that your YEL income does not fall behind the general pay development. In addition, every three years we review whether your YEL income still meets the recommendation. If required, we will provide you with a proposal on adjusting your YEL income. In this case, you can either accept our proposal or reject it and apply for the YEL income that you think best describes your work contribution.

This table illustrates how your YEL income affects your life.

Situation	Benefit to be applied for	Impact of YEL income	Who pays
You fall ill	Sickness allowance	The allowance is based on your YEL income	Kela
You have a baby	Parental allowance	The allowance is based on your YEL income	Kela

You die	Survivors' pension	The pension is based on your YEL income	Employment pension insurance company

Also note that there are lower and upper limits for YEL income. This means that for 2024, your YEL income can be no less than EUR 9,010.28 and no more than EUR 204,625.00.

Size of the YEL insurance contribution

YEL insurance is statutory, which is why the YEL insurance contribution is the same in all employment pension insurance companies.

The size of your YEL insurance contribution is affected by four things:

- 1. Your YEL income. The contribution is a percentage of your YEL income. The Ministry of Social Affairs and Health confirms the YEL contribution percentage annually.
- 2. Your age. At the age of under 53 or at least 63, you pay less than between the ages of 53–62.

- 3. Being a first-timer. When you become self-employed for the first time, you receive the reduction for new entrepreneurs.

- 4. Number of instalments and payment dates. Those who pay their YEL contributions in one instalment in January pay the least.

The YEL calculator gives you an estimate of your pension and social security level and the amount of the YEL contribution. You can try out how different instalment months and amounts affect your YEL contribution.

Age	Pension accrual, % of YEL income in 2024	YEL contribution, % of YEL income in 2024	YEL contribution for new entrepreneurs, % of YEL income in 2024
Under 53	1.5	24.1	18.798
53–62	1.7	25.6	19.968
At least 63	1.5	24.1	18.798

Reduction for new entrepreneurs

When you become self-employed for the first time, you will get a 22% reduction on your YEL contributions. You will get the discount during the first 48 months – or four years – of your self-employment. If your self-employment ends earlier, you can use the remaining discount period for another period of entrepreneurship.

In one or more instalments

You can pay your annual contributions in as many instalments as you like: 1, 2, 3, 4, 6 or 12 instalments.

However, at least half of the contributions must fall due before August. The due date of the contribution is the 20th of the month or the first weekday following the 20th.

Your contributions are tax deductible

You can deduct all of your YEL contributions in your personal or your company's taxation. If you pay your YEL contributions yourself, you can deduct them in your or your spouse's personal taxation. It is advisable to deduct the contributions in the taxation of the spouse who has the bigger earnings subject to salary income taxation and other progressive taxation. If you pay YEL contributions through your company, deduct the contributions in your company's taxation. Start using an electronic online invoice or e-invoice and benefit the environment.
